

Life in the Forests of the Far East: Travels in Sabah and Sarawak in the 1860s (Oxford in Asia Hardback Reprints)

This is an account of the area that later became the States of Sarawak and Sabah (now East Malaysia) and Brunei. As well as describing adventurous journeys through the forests of Borneo, Spencer St. John, who spent 13 years as a colonial officer, discusses Land and Sea Dayaks, Sarawak under James Brooke, and the Chinese insurrection against the Brooke Raj.
