

Ploughshares Spring 1976 Guest-Edited by Tim OBrien with DeWitt Henry and Henry Bromell

The Spring 1976 issue of Ploughshares, guest-edited by Tim OBrien. Ploughshares, a journal of new writing, is guest-edited serially by prominent writers who explore different personal visions, aesthetics, and literary circles. National Book Award Winner and Pulitzer Nominee Tim OBrien (The Things They Carried, Going After Cacciato) compiled this issue of Ploughshares subtitled, Special Fiction Issue. In the issue's epigraph, OBrien quotes Charles Peguy, who states, A review only continues to have life in it so long as each issue annoys at least one fifth of its subscribers. Justice lies in seeing that this one fifth is not always the same one. OBrien's selections purposefully challenge, provoke, and inspire this edition's audience. This edition features works by Pulitzer Prize winner Maxine Kumin (Up Country), Richard Yates (Revolutionary Road), future Ploughshares Guest Editor Ellen Wilbur, and OBrien himself, along with other loyal Ploughshares contributors. He was assisted in creating the issue by Associate Editors DeWitt Henry, the founder of Ploughshares, and Henry Bromell (The Slightest Distance).
FICTION: House to Let, by Mary Lavin; Going After Cacciato, by Tim OBrien; Cellar Full of Water, by George P. Elliott; Vestiges, by Meredith Steinbach; An Old Aperitif, by Deirdre Burt; The Contagion, by Maxine Kumin; Perfection, by Ellen Wilbur; Thieves, by Richard Yates; The Things She Cannot Write About, The Reasons Why, by James Crumley.
NONFICTION: Bread Loaf Address, by Seymour Epstein; Mary Lavin: A Note, by Henry Bromell
