

Scandals, Secrets, and Murder: The Widow and the Rogue Mysteries

SCANDALS, SECRETS, AND MURDER: The Widow and the Rogue Mysteries--- New Historical Mystery from New York Times bestselling mystery author Maggie Sefton Powerful and corrupt U.S. Senator Horace Chester is stabbed to death in a Murder Bay brothel, wrapped in the arms of his evenings entertainment. His assailant escapes into the crush of unwashed bodies filling the streets of 1890 Washingtons notorious red light district just a few blocks from the Presidents House. Amanda Duncan, wealthy young Washington widow, tries to ignore the clairvoyant visions that flash unbidden before her eyes. Since she couldnt save her own family, perhaps her visions can help others. Now, Amanda turns her back on Washington society and deliberately treads where no respectable lady would dare. This latest vision was most troubling. She saw a man stabbed to death by a shadowy assailant and a young girl screaming. Devlin Burke, English investor and sometime sleuth, is in Washington on family business and to rescue his nephew Freddie whos gone bankrupt in one of Sen. Chesters investment schemes. In a rage, Freddie attacked Chester in a crowded Capitol Hill hallway only days before the senators murder. Freddie has no alibi and is now the police inspectors prime suspect. Devlin and Amanda join forces in a search to find Senator Chesters killer, which takes them from the Capitals poshest salons into the crime-infested streets of Murder Bay. Devlins sleuthing instincts and Amandas psychic detection lead them ever closer to the truth. But the closer they approach, the more desperate the killer becomes---and the more dangerous.
