

The Coast of Southern Africa

A survey from the desert shores of the Namib to the waters of the Maputaland coral reefs, depicting the villages, towns, great harbours, and the areas vast range of animal inhabitants.

The Wild Coast is one of South Africa's most remote stretches of shoreline, offering some of the most beautiful and primeval coastal scenery in the world. Read a National Geographic magazine article about South African coast and get information, facts, and more about marine biodiversity. Of South Africa's twin coastlines, the east coast draws a much higher percentage of overseas visitors. They are attracted by the relative warmth. The Cape West Coast is synonymous with the fishing lifestyle. From the earliest days in South African history, fishermen realised that the cold Benguela current. Continental South Africa has a coastline of some 3,650 km and an Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ) of just over 1 million km². Waters in the EEZ. Driving along the beautiful Western Cape coast and beaches of South Africa near Cape Town. The West Coast is a region of the Western Cape province in South Africa and is bordered by the Atlantic Ocean on the west and the Swartland region on the east. Coast to Coast provides the best and well detailed back packer listings within Southern Africa for all cultures and personalities. Southern Africa has enough. Southern Africa is the southernmost region of the African continent, variably defined by the region has both low-lying coastal areas, and mountains. In terms of Cape Agulhas is the true most southern tip of Africa. This is where the Atlantic Ocean and the Indian Ocean meet and mingle. The lighthouse at Cape Agulhas and the nature hike surrounding the area are supposed to be lovely. South Africa's Cape coast attracts thousands of local and international tourists each year to witness the Indian and Atlantic oceans splashing. South Africa occupies the southern tip of Africa, its coastline stretching more than 2,500 kilometres (1,600 miles) from the desert border with Namibia on the Atlantic (western) coast southwards around the tip of Africa and then northeast to the border with Mozambique on the Indian Ocean. Wild Coast conservation gets R46m UN injection. By Guy Rogers Environment & Tourism Editor The Herald CONSERVATION and ecotourism on the Wild